A NEWARK CONCERN SAID TO HAVE USED SHARP PRACTICE IN A REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION WITH AN IGNO-

RANT COUPLE. Orange, Aug. 1 (Special).-The details of a peculiar transaction, which puts the American Building Loan and Savings Association, of Newark, in a bad light, have just come to light. Chancery proceedings have been begun against the association and its officers, charging them with conspiracy to de-

About two years ago Augustus Reinhardt and wife, Theresa, of Orange, bought a lot on the instalment plan in Watson-ave., West Orange, from Watson Whittlesey. The couple worked hard and stinted themselves until last January, when they made the final payment and received a deed to the They at once set about getting a loan to enable them to build a home. They fell into the hands of Arthur Hinde, the manager of agenfor the American Building Loan and Savings Association, of New-Jersey, with offices at Nos. 673 and 475 Broad-st., Newark. The Reinhardts were simple and unsuspecting, and, it is alleged, he influenced them to make an application for a loan month later they were informed that the loan had been passed by the Board of Directors, and Hinde took them down to the offices of the company, where Edwin J. Murphy, the president of the association, presented to them what he represented to be a bond and mortgage to secure the loan. This they signed, Murphy himself taking the acknowledgment. Both Reinhardt and his wife are ignorant of the English language, and they trusted implicitly to the representations of the officials of the company. Mrs. Reinhardt was then told that she could go ahead and make her contracts for the building of the house. She did so, and contracted in the usual way with Charles B. Meeker, a builder, to erect a house for $1,500. Time went on, and when the first payment came due Meeker was paid $20 by Samuel W. Chapman, the secretary of the company. When the next payment fell due another application was made for money, but it was not forthcoming. Meeker went on as long as he could, and then stopped work and money, but it was not forthcoming. Meeker went on as long as he could, and then stopped work and told Mrs. Reinhardt that he could go no further until he was pakl according to the contract.

Mrs. Reinhardt then applied to Watson Whitdesey, who sold her the bot, for a loan. He agreed to do so and deposited his check for $250 in escrow, with his counsel, Blake & Howe, to take up the loan from the American Building Loan and Savings Association as soon as the title was found perfect. Blake & Howe made the usual searches, and found that the alleged bond and mertgage was, in fact, an absolute deed of the property not to the association, but to Chapman. Further search developed the fact that there were on record against Chapman judgments recorded in 1831 for over $300 and that these came in as a first lief, on the property. Theer the circumstances Mr. Whittlesey could not make the loan, and his check was returned to him. Blake & Howe look up the marter as solicitors for the Reight dok up the marter as solicitors for the Reight dok up the marter as hell in chancery asking that the deed of conveyance be set aside as fratilelent, and charging the American Building Loan and Savings Association as a body, Arthur Hinde, manager of agencles; Edwin J. Murphy, president, and samuel W. Chapman, secretary, with conspiracy to defraud.

In the mean time the house stands half finished and unprotected. It cannot be insured, and, as it will take three or four months to press the chancery suit through it is probable that serious damage will result to the Reinhardts. The Reinhardts are in a pitiable condition, every dollar that they have in the world being tied up in this place. An effort will be made to have the criminal side of the case taken up.

Pittman Grove, Aug. 1 (Special).-A veritable chower of blood dashed through the windows of the clock train, which was loaded with excursionists for this place, this afternoon. The train was just drawing into Sewell, and upon reaching that station one of the train men climbed to the top of the car. A blood-curdling sight met his eyes. TO PROTECT THE PAVEMENTS.

JERSEY CITY OFFICIALS CONSIDERING HOW TO PREVENT RUTS.

Jersey City is agitating the subject of wide tires for vehicles, and the municipal authorities have been considering for several weeks ways and means of protecting the local drives against damage by on wheels. The Arlington Driveway is one of the latest and finest roadways in the city, and is paved with macadam. Complaint is made that heavy wagons going over that road are slowly but ruining it by causing ruts, which greatly interfere with comfortable driving. Corporation Attorney Spencer Weart has investigated the subject, and has ascertained that in the city of Rochester every truck is wide-tired, and the result is that Rochester's macadam pavements are free from ruts. In speaking of the Rochester ordinance yesterday Mr. Weart said: "Rochester is ordinance yesterday Mr. Weart said: "Rochester is differently situated from Jersey City. New-York. Brooklyn, Hoboken, Newark and Bayonne are all around us. If an ordinance prohibiting heavy trucks without wide tires were to be passed in this city, just imagine the fuss the Mew-Yorkers, Brooklynites, Hobokenites and other persons would make when they found that their trucks were not allowed in Jersey City without broad tires. At the same time something will have to be done to protect the city's macadam pavement."

The Board of Street and Water Commissioners will consider the Rochester ordinance, even if it does not eventually adopt something like it.

A GIRL JUMPS THIRTY FEET INTO A QUARRY IN AN EFFORT TO GET AWAY FROM THE ALMSHOUSE

Sarah Lefalks, an orphan, thirteen years old, was committed to the Hudson County Almshouse two weeks ago because her brother, a young man, could not provide for her, and her uncle refused er in his home, as she is uncontrollable. On Thursday afternoon she appeared on the edge of the quarry pit, where the convicts were at work, and after shouting "Hello!" to attract their attention, announced that she intended jumping into the quar-As the pit is thirty feet deep, she was told to go away, as she might fall.

"I'm going to jump!" was her defiant reply, "and you can catch me if you want to."

The Warden secured a wagon and started in pursuit. The girl was captured after a race of a mile. On the return she jumped from the wagon while it was passing the swamp and waded through the marsh so quickly that the Warden could not overtake her. She hid in the tall swamp grass. The Warden returned to the Almshouse and formed a searching party of seventy boys. They found the fugitive, who made a stubborn resistance, and was dragged out of the swamp. The Warden sent her to her uncle's home, at Monmouth and Fifth sts., Jersey City, yesterday, saying: "I've had enough of her."

A SILVER-PLATED CIRCULAR.

ESSEX COUNTY DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE'S AP PEAL FOR THE KIND TREATMENT OF RENEGADE REPUBLICANS. A campaign circular issued privately to the members of the Democratic Committee of Essex County, which recently indorsed the Chicago plat-form and candidates, cautions the members to submit for election officers the names of no persons who are not trustworthy Democrats. circular suggests that the members cause the or-ganization in their districts of Bryan and Sewali clubs, or bimetallic clubs or leagues, the only qualification of membership to be support of the Chicago platform and nominees.

The circular concludes: "You are expected to see to it that, in the great shifting of party lines and changing of voters now going on, every kindness and attention be shown to those who formerly belonged to the opposition, and also to see that persons who openly oppose and refuse to indorse the nominees and platform of the Chicago Convention are not placed in positions of party trust and influence in the coming campaign. However much we would desire them to continue with us, they cannot consistently do so when they oppose our nominees and the principles they represent."

"DIVINE HEALING" IN TEXAS.

From The New-Orleans Times-Democrat. From The New-Orleans Times-Democrat.

"I am called from here and obey my Father's will. August Schrader." This was the brief notice of the "Divine Healer" nosted at the Victoria Hotel this morning before boarding a train and skipping the town. He is said to have lighted out for Greenville, to which point he bought a ticket, and from there it is said he will go straight to Texarkana.

At least 1,000 people appeared at his tent this morning to learn their hope had incontinently fied the scene, had gone glimmering to fresh fields and pastures new. Many of them tried to laugh, others merning to learn their hope had incontinently fled the scene, had gone glimmering to fresh fields and pastures new. Many of them tried to laugh, others looked sad, others took consolation in hearing that he toid several he would return to-night. But few believe he will do anything of the kind. The wise ones knew he was a fraud six months ago, the moderately wise saw a humbug at once, but the moderately wise saw a humbug at once, but the majority of people now say he comes under the designation of a crank. People began to put him to a test yesterday, and caught him in several point-blank falsehoods. Others intended to corner him to-day and it is said that he found this out and went off to Greenville. Attention was also called to the fact that the written published certificates of miraculous cures were from people who belonged to the streetear line upon which his tent was pitched, and which was raking in more shekeis than it had in many a day. He took sway a bushel of handkerehiefs. His mail to-day brought in 154 more, which will be heid by the hotel people. As to the people brought in they are leaving to-night in disgust, and feeling that humbugs still sway the world easier than the wise.

THE HUDSON RIVER TUNNEL

AROUSED. MORE MONEY WILL BE PUT UP BY THE ENGLIS

INTEREST IN THE PROJECT ONCE MORE

NEW-YORK FOR AID-DIFFICULTIES IN

PUSHING THE WORK. cussion. The English bondholders, who have ready sunk $1,500,000 in trying to dig the double tunnel under the Hudson River from Jersey City to Morton-st., intend attempting to effect a reor-ganization of the Hudson Tunnel Railway Company. They do not, however, propose to do it alone. At the meeting held by the bondholders on June Il last in London, the chairman made this somewhat trustful statement regarding the reorganization plan: "There is one feature in it which I am very pleased to see, and that is that New-York offers to supply half of the money that is necessary for the completion of the tunnel."

and free silver became nightmares in the financial world. New-York capitalists are not even dreaming of heavy investments in reorganization schemes at the present time. The idea of this tunnel is credited to Colonel schemes at the bicsent time.

The idea of this tunnel is credited to Colonel De Witt Clinton Haskin, who began pendering over it early in the seventies, and had surveys and soundings made. Colonel Haskin had been one of the Argonauts, and he received aid from C. P. Huntington and Mark Hopkins. He also enlisted the interest of Senator John r. Jones and Trenor Jones after the deaths of Mark Hopkins and Mr. Parke in the project. The zeal of Senator Jones after the deaths of Mark Hopkins and Mr. Parke still held fast.

After Mr. Parke's death and a lapse in the work, which had been begun in 1874. Colonel Haskin secured English capital, and the work went on, with Sir John Fowler and Sir Benjamin Haker as consulting engineers. Colonel Haskin's air-pressure method was used. New-York capitalists took an interest in the ent-prise, their legal representative being Frederic B. Jennings, of Stetson, Jennings. Tracy & Russell.

In the latest effort to carry out the project, it was expected that the $1,500,000 capital raised would be sufficient to complete the tunnel, but, owing to unexpected difficulties in prosecuting the work, among which was the fooding of the tunnel, the money was used up when 3,900 feet of its northern channel had been built, and only 190 feet of the southern one had been completed. Work was suppended in 1822.

Daniel Lord, of Lord, Day & Lord, No. 120 Broadway, is the legal representative of the English bondholders who are reorganizing the company. He said recently:

"The statement already published in The Tribure as to the general plan of reorganization is correct. Part of the new capital is to be raised in this city, but no attempt to do this will be made until after the election. I do not expect that work with be renewed on the tunnel before winter.

Charles M. Jacobs, who has been chosen as chief engineer of the work to be prosecuted, was selected because of his success with the East River tunnel. This was due to his extended experience with preumatic work. On this point Mr. Jacobs said:

FARMERS FOR M'KINLEY.

FARMERS FOR M'KINLEY.

The assertion of the Chicagoan platform howers that the Eastern farmers and workingmen are becoming infected with the free-silver sentiment is proven, so far as Albany County is concerned, to be a freak of the imagination. The majority of the Democratic farmers are talking McKinley and protection, and no amount of hysterical, wild-eyed free-silver arguments could shake their sound-free-silver arguments could shake their sound-free-silver arguments could shake their sound-routern countles in the State, where he made a hasty though representative canvass of the farmers on the money question.

"Why," said one man, whom the local politican induced to speak by giving him a liberal piperul of tobacco, "I've been in the Civil War and fought then for the same thing we're fighting for to-day-protection. It's the same principle and I'm for McKinley day and night."

"But McKinley tariff benefits the manufacturer and monopolist," replied the local politician, for the sake of argument.

"Whatever helps the manufacturer helps me, was the emphatic rejoinder, and the farmer maintained a complete silence, satisfied with having emerged from the brief debate with flying colors." "People up there." said the Albany man, after relating the foregoing incident, "are red-hot for McKinley."

The same intense feeling prevails here. In Cohees, which is a bustling manufacturing town, a large number of Democratic mill workers have declared for McKinley. From The Albany Evening Journal.
